

These Derm-Recommended Blackhead-Removal Methods Are The Real Deal

SHARE IT

COMMENTS

SEE ALL SLIDES | 3 OF 7

The Pro: Megan McIntyre, R29 beauty features director

The Fix: "Most mud masks can be super-drying, but this sea-clay mask from holistic aesthetician Susan Ciminelli pulls everything out of your pores (and I mean EVERYTHING) but doesn't strip away moisture or irritate. When I smooth it on, I can actually see it absorbing into my pores and uprooting all the sludge stuck in there. It's pretty thick, so I like to dilute it by spraying a bit of a facial mist (Whamisa Organic Flowers Olive Leaf Mist is a great choice) on a dab of it and mixing it together in my hands before applying to my face."

Susan Ciminelli Sea Clay Mask, $55, available at Susan Ciminelli.

