Spring Renewal: 6 Fabulous Face Oils to Transform Your Dry Winter Skin

March 14, 2016

[...]

Those of you that have been reading my blog for a while know that I am just a wee bit obsessed with face oils. Not only do I love face oils because I have dry thirsty skin, but I also love them because today's high tech oils are nourishing, anti-aging, transformative and skin-loving. Many of these oils smell heavenly and most give your skin instant and long lasting radiance and luminosity, not greasiness. Below are my six new favorite face oil serums and what I love about each of them.

Susan Ciminelli Marine Lotion ($195) Susan Ciminelli is a glorious woman and her to-die-for facials are in high demand among celebs and beauty junkies like myself. However, she is probably most well-known for her infamous 'Ciminelli Glow' a three-step process that consists of applying her three amazeballs hero products to create luminous skin: First you apply a few drops of one of her essential oil serums (I love the invigorating Toning Formula), then you give yourself several spritzes of her nourishing Seawater and lastly you drench your skin in her luscious Marine Lotion. I am OBSESSED with this unctuous anti-aging oil serum made of juicy algae oil and cypress, juniper, marjoram and vetiver essential oils. I adore the refreshing herbal scent and I can't get over the silky texture and how it instantly makes my skin luminous, moist and supple. I kid you not, when I use Susan's Marine Lotion, I always get compliments about how good my skin looks. LOVE!!
